- Project finance is financing that as a priority does not depend on the soundness or creditworthiness of the parties proposing the business idea to launch a project.
- Approval of the financing is basically a function of the project's ability to repay the debt contracted and also remunerate capital invested at a rate consistent with the degree of risk inherent to the venture concerned.

In a sense, I would say the term is indicative because project finance is the financing of one specific project namely an infrastructure. If you want, there is a clear correspondence between one project and one entity that is created with the sole purpose to design, to build, and to manage that specific infrastructure. And that company goes under the name of Special Purpose Vehicle. You can understand that there is a basic difference between project finance and the traditional corporate finance.
